

Abstract Of The Disclosure

An assembly includes a water turbine and a rotary electrical generator, the rotor of which is connected to the turbine. The turbine has at least three axially directed blades, each blade being individually directly connected to the rotor of the generator.